Join the Louisville Writing Project for a day of summer learning: Refresh, Renew, and Connect with fellow LWP TCs, or if you're not a Writing Project Fellow, come see what we're about—and learn strategies for implementation in your classroom next fall. We'll have a day of conference-style sessions, including both 90 minute and half-day sessions. Our schedule includes: Conventions, Writing with ELLs, Writing in Project Based Learning, Disrupting the Canon/Equity in the ELA classroom, and a special presentation from KWP Director Jean C. Wolph on her new text: You Have to Teach it Before You Can Test It.

Lunch is on your own—but we're inviting you to join us for dessert provided by LWP TCs! We want to celebrate the hard work of teachers in this post -Pandemic return year, and dream about what's possible in the fall as we return to THRIVE— and not just survive.
